

Art Smuck

President and Chief Executive Officer,
FedEx Supply Chain

Art Smuck is the president and CEO of FedEx Supply Chain. In his role, Smuck is responsible for leading the development and implementation of innovative business strategies that drive value for customers, stakeholders, and team members.

Smuck oversees the FedEx Supply Chain executive leadership team and is responsible for the performance and strategic direction of the company. Additionally, he works closely with the FedEx senior leadership team to enhance the global network's capabilities with advanced supply chain solutions.

Smuck consistently ensures that FedEx Supply Chain delivers industry-leading solutions for its customers and fosters a company culture infused with engagement, inclusion, and opportunity.

He has served in numerous positions of increasing responsibility during his more than 30 years in the field of logistics and distribution. Smuck has extensive experience in supply chain management, facility operations, and sales performance.

He is known for his strong connection to people, his ability to develop high-performance leadership teams, and his effectiveness in leading value creation for customers and shareholders.

Smuck holds a board position with the Fort Worth Community Food Bank and serves on the executive team for the Pittsburgh American Heart Association.

A Chicago native, Smuck also has roots in Pittsburgh and Fort Worth, Texas.

